Curtain Ready to Go Up in Jubilee Birthday Pageant

There will be no dull moments. From the hour the curtain is rung up on Port Arthur's gigantic one-day celebration of the 25th year of its birth, until the last event has transpired and the last strains of the dozen bands have melted into the night, there will be a nucleus of stunts and entertainment calculated to dispense care and squelch the little joy-killing "devils of blue."

And, over the whole panorama of mirth Queen Mary, attended by representatives of seven surrounding ruling houses and her own host of royalty and meniality, will reign supreme.

Port Arthur, in the presence of thousands of visitors from many parts of Texas and Louisiana, will crown her queen as the paramount feature of the day's festivities.

Ceremonies at 11:30

Miss Mary Elizabeth Donaldson, chosen for the people and by the people, will be crowned upon the royal throne, the coronation ceremonies being scheduled to get under way at 11:30 a. m., directly following the passing in review of the historical pageant of the day. And Princesses Elizabeth Mark of the house of Beaumont; Alice Richard of Lake Charles; Rena Ross of Orange; Dottie Haddock of Port Neches; Theresa Kaper of Nederland; Florine Welch of Sabine Pass and Doris Krebs of Sabine, will grace the throne with Her Majesty.

Each of the princesses will be attended by maids in waiting, royal attendants and pages, in addition to Queen Mary's own retinue composed of her ladies in waiting, knights of honor, train-bearers, paces, crown bearer and court jester. In this wise, a marching column will invade the corridor of Austin avenue constructed under the great white way extending from Procter street to Fifth, culminating with the throne itself that mounts high at the street intersection.

A corps of workmen already has completed the construction of the white way and the jingling with the coming of the morn'g, however, the whole scene, extending the entire block, will be transformed into one big blaze of glory through addition of flags, bunting and rich velvety carvings and decorations. And, at the presentation of flowers to the royal couple on tomorrow night, a myriad scintillating electric bulbs will contribute to the scene, producing an effect of unrivaled splendor.

Rehearsals Tonight

Everything will be in readiness for the "moving in" of the royal family. This coming night rehearsals will be held and finishing touches placed on costumes, modistes' work and the beauty parlor effects. The throne will be completed, also, but protected from the night air by heavy tarpaulin to keep the decorations fresh for the ceremonies.

Promptly at 10 a. m. the mile-long pageant, the greatest feature of the entire Quarter Centennial celebration, will begin moving up the right side of Procter street and Houston avenue to Millwright boulevard, then down the left side of the city's main thoroughfare to Houston avenue.

Queen and princesses and their mighty accompaniments will turn out of the parade into Austin avenue and proceed directly to the throne.

In the line of march, practically every phase of the city's development will be portrayed in the historical divisions. Startling comparisons will be revealed, showing in a small way, somewhat the mighty achievements of Congressman John C. Box, representative in the United States Congress for the second congressional district of Texas, who will deliver the Fourth of July address at Lions park Wednesday afternoon, is expected to arrive in Port Arthur at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The city of Port Arthur during the first 25 years of its development will be depicted to bring home vitally to every red-blooded American the full significance of the birthday of the nation, being commemorated simultaneously. A statue of liberty and a full tribe of American Indians will aid the public in this direction.

Revelation of Vets

An international aspect will be injected through presence of flags of more than a dozen foreign nations whose consuls reside here; members of the 11th engineer corps and several columns of American Legion members and other ex-service men will lend a military air to the occasion; several floats, prairie schooners and early locomotives will depict the mode of travel as it was years ago when Texas was a republic, when great herds of cattle were the main population of this vast country.

Practically every industry will be represented. Oil refining, shipping, lumber and the like will be there, as well as the manifold fraternal, religious and women's club life of the city. Churches and schools will have their entries. The Sabote, Pilots' Association will be there.

Mayor Logan's Proclamation

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO a small colony of patriots met and proclaimed that the American colonies were and of right ought to be free and independent.

From the political doctrine then enunciated there has been built the world's greatest nation, all history's proudest republic and all time's most advanced civilization.

Twenty-five years ago a handful of pioneers, possessing the same qualities of character that sustained those of 1776, declared that despite hardship and hardship, trial and tribulation, there should be built by the shores of Lake Sabine a city which should some day rival the proudest metropolises of the South.

We approach the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence of the one hundred and forty-seventh year of the founding of the City of Port Arthur the twenty-fifth, and it is fitting that we as citizens of the United States of America and the City of Port Arthur shall properly and adequately honor that date in our country's and our city's history.

Now, therefore, that all citizens of the City of Port Arthur may be privileged to pay tribute to that hallowed anniversary, the Fourth of July, 1923, I, J. P. Logan, mayor of the City of Port Arthur, by the authority vested in me do hereby designate said date a legal holiday, on which all public buildings shall be closed and all public employees shall cease from their labors, and proclaim that it is the duty and obligation of all citizens to close their places of business throughout the day, that they and their employees may take part in the Quarter-Centennial celebration in observance of the nation's birthday anniversary.

Under my hand this third day of July, A. D. 1923.

J. P. LOGAN, Mayor.

Judge McDowell Asks Arrests of Gilbert's Rodeo Throwers

Jurisdiction Ends With Request to Sheriff Garner, Judge Says, On Report Contests Will Be Held

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 3.—Judge L. A. McDowell replied to Willie Gilbert's announcement Monday night that he would hold rodeo contests today and tomorrow in the rodeo which he is promoting on his ranch, by asking Sheriff T. H. Garner to arrest anyone who throws a rope within the arena.

"All I can do," Judge McDowell declared, "is to point out the law to officers having the power of arrest." Gilbert's decision to hold rodeo contests the remaining two days of the rodeo follows cancellation of all roping events several days before the show opened. The tying and throwing events were called off, according to Gilbert's announcement, when it was explained to him that roping contests represented violation of the law.

Jack Kearns left for Shelby on early train. He intended to look over final arrangements there and see how the last minute ticket sales were coming in.

Gambler on "Gate"

Kearns is taking a "sporting chance" that he would be able to obtain the $300,000 purse guaranteed him in his contract. After a whole night spent in conferences, during which Kearns made overtures overtures to compromise and help the promoters out of their difficulties, it was finally agreed that Kearns should accept the $200,000 that has already been paid him on behalf of the champion and gamble on the gate receipts to make the additional $100,000.

Throughout the conferences, during which efforts were made to learn the real responsible authorities for the fight, Kearns offered every proposition that he knew of to make the fight good. He suggested a postponement of a month; he offered to fight for $250,000; he expressed his willingness to go on the $200,000 that had already been paid to him and take his chance of getting the rest of his $300,000 purse from the gate after the expense of the show, including the purses for the preliminaries, the salaries of the ushers and the special policemen had been paid.

Promoters Agree

The promoters for hours refused to listen to him, and after a lot of deliberation they finally agreed to accept his terms.

After the agreement had been effected, Kearns said he was actuated throughout by the desire to be a "good fellow" and "sportsman." He declared he felt that he had done his part.

$25 JUNE FIRE DAMAGE HERE

Minimum Record Reported By Fire Marshal

A fire loss of only $25, practically negligible, according to city officials, is reported by J. B. Cox, fire marshal, for the month of June in his report given the city commission today.

This loss resulted from damage to a building and its contents following the explosion of an oil stove, the report sets forth. Of the total 11 alarms turned in during June, three were the result of automobile fires; one when a fence caught fire; one false alarm; one spontaneous combustion of a saw blade; and several oil stove fires, Cox reported.

Building permits checked during the month by Fire Marshal Cox totaled 267; he ordered 18 permits taken out; inspected 245 buildings; and ordered 20 corrections, he stated in the report.

Ft. Leavenworth Pen Identifies Holland's Prints

Letter From Federal Pen Official Says He is J. H. E. Houlihan, Charged With Slaying Two Police Officers at Everett, Wash.

James Edwin Holland, arrested by Port Arthur police as admittedly an I. W. W. organizer, released by Judge McDowell in district court at Beaumont following habeas corpus proceedings, and allegedly kidnapped near the city hall, taken outside the city and flogged, is J. H. E. Houlihan who was held in the county jail at Everett, Wash., charged with murder of Deputy Sheriff Board and Lieutenant Curless. It was disclosed today.

"We have positively identified him as J. H. E. Houlihan, No. 1929" who was charged with the murder of Board and Curless which occurred on Nov. 5, 1916. It was disclosed in a letter received by R. D. Throp, superintendent of the bureau of identification maintained here in connection with the Port Arthur police department. The letter was from A. de Broux, chief of the bureau of criminal identification at the federal penitentiary at Port Leavenworth, Kans.

Since the disappearance of Holland as Houlihan, as he has been identified, directly following the alleged whipping and chaining together with John Murray, another admitted I. W. W. organizer, which occurred last after midnight Saturday, the local police have been conducting a search for the missing men, especially Holland. The fact that he was a "wanted man" had not been established previously to receipt of the letter from the Leavenworth department of justice official.

No Trace Found

No trace of either man has been found. It was stated at Throp's office today. Aft of Beaumont, police has been enlisted in a search in addition to efforts being made locally.

Holland was first arrested in Port Arthur when the attempted negotiations for the renting of a building in this city to be used as I. W. W. headquarters, according to Throp. He was "held for investigation" following his identification as a leader of the "Wobblies."

Throp was ordered by Chief of Police Covington and Mayor Logan to take fingerprints of Holland. The prisoner objected strenuously, according to police. He struck at Throp and when officers tried to hold him to prevent a struggle, he is said to have scratched, scratched and bitten in all directions, leaving officers down to the floor with him. He beat his own head against the floor and bit his own finger, yelling "murder, murder," the while he was declared.

J. E. Rose, attorney for Holland, answered cries of the prisoner and told the officers not to take the fingerprints. Holland said he "would do anything he would be fingerprinted."

But the officers were taken. Before Grand Jury

The county grand jury, in session at Beaumont, was given the case and it was declared today that police officers of Port Arthur were required to produce Holland in person before the jury in refutation of charges that he had been "murdered" during the attempted escape.

Judge E. A. McDowell, in discharging the prisoner after habeas corpus in the case, said that police officers were required to produce Holland in person before the jury in refutation of charges that he had been "murdered" during the attempted escape.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

The next place the cute little train stopped at was called Merry-Go-Round Town. As soon as the Twins got off at the station they heard the music. It didn't take long for them to find the place where the Merry-Go-Round was, because all they had to do was to go in the direction the sounds came from. "Ding! Ding!" went a bell when the Twins were almost up to it. Then the music stopped and the Merry-Go-Round slowed down. Right beside them was a little coop with a wire hook high had "Tickets" in large letters over the top. "I wish we had some money," whispered Nancy to Nick. "I'd love to have a ride!" Just then a funny little fellow stuck his head up over the counter of the little coop and said, "You don't need any money here. We give our tickets away for nothing." "Goody!" cried both Twins. "That's kind!" "How many?" asked the funny little man. "Six tickets a piece, please," said Nick quickly. "Oh, we won't have time," declared Nancy. "The train will go without us." You see, the Twins explained to the funny little fellow, "We are traveling through Choo-Choo Land to hunt for my rag doll who is lost. And we have a short time at each station. You didn't happen to see Ruby Joan, did you?" "No, I didn't," answered the little man kindly. "I don't believe she's been here at all! But now that you are here, you may as well enjoy yourselves. Hop on and ride as long as you like and I'll telephone to Mister Toots, the engineer of the Choo-Choo Express to wait for you." "Thank you!" cried the Twins racing into the Merry-Go-Round and climbing on. They rode on every one of the animals from the seahorse to the giraffe. It was enough to make them dizzy for the rest of their lives. After while they went back to their train, after thanking the kind little man. (To Be Continued) (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

It's No Crime for Newlyweds to Bar His Home to Ten Relatives of the Bride, the Judge Decrees

CHICAGO, July 2.—Frank Cacole, four feet eleven inches tall and weighing about 240 pounds, twisted his cravat nervously and stepped before Judge Haas. "I've just been married eight days and my troubles have begun," he said. "You don't mean to say you and the bride are quarreling already?" "No, your honor. It's me and my mother-in-law and sister-in-law," Cacole said. "I came home from work and found the mother and sister and her eight kids together with three trunks, two suitcases, a bird cage and a dog established in our house." "Now, my wife weighs 200. I love her, but before we were married I never took her out to dinner. I didn't know she could eat so much macaroni. It's going to keep me working about 15 hours a day to support her. I just can't support the in-laws." "And so?" Judge Haas asked. "I told 'em all to get out. My sister-in-law had me arrested for disorderly conduct." "Case dismissed," Judge Haas ordered. "You don't have to support anybody but your wife. Go home and continue your honeymoon." French helicopter went straight up, staying up nine minutes; possibly after hearing of the new German note. It is hard on a girl to marry a man whose mother was a good cook.

FIRE TRUCK HITS CAR; NONE HURT

Auto Driver Held for Causing Accident

A probably serious accident was narrowly averted in Proctor street between Waco avenue and Austin avenue about 10 a. m. today when a fire truck responding to an alarm crashed into an automobile, clipping the rear fender of the machine.

Following the accident a man giving the name of J. H. Crum was arrested by Officer J. R. Strunge and booked on the police blotter as causing accident to fire department. Crum, who does not live in Port Arthur, was released on his own recognizance to appear in corporation court Thursday morning.

Quick action and good head work on the part of Tom Rabun driving the fire truck from Vicksburg fire station is held responsible by eye witnesses for averting a possible tragedy when the automobile cut out into the middle of the street.

The fire alarm responded to by the fire department when the accident occurred resulted from an oil stove exploding at 237 Seventh street. Fire Chief Clyde LaRosa said damage from the flames was slight. He said:

CURTAIN READY TO GO UP

Location through Captain Don Allen and the school principal, Mr. Staff, have a very elaborate rehearsal of an oil tanker, calculated to open the eyes of the most critical observers of parents of the kind.

The whole educational and historical scene will be only not through the interspersing of brass bands in the line of march. The play will be here from local funds to those from Beaumont, Port Neches and other surrounding towns and cities.

Port Arthur police will be in the parade, the city officials will ride in the night and morning, while the parade will pass in review for the first time.

Then, in the last, a continuous stream of individuals donated automobiles will complete for nearly $200 in prizes. The sailors from vessels in Port tomorrow will participate, strutting by in true maritime fashion.

Then the whole wonderfully artistic walking ribbon will close with a carnival float entering by the Port Arthur Elks, among the visitors and local folk swimming behind the coronation of Queen Mary and the presentation of her court of honor composed of the seven visiting princesses, going will sound the dinner hour.

Bands Galore

Band stationed on downtown street corners will do duty intermittently and at 2 o'clock will strike up a concert in every direction. Thirty minutes later that portion of the huge crowd that can do so will repair to the Elks park for the principal address of the entire celebration. Messages will be read from Arthur Stulwell, the founder of this port and the man of mystery whose wonderful foresight even those who spoken in terms of the dream was responsible for the beginning of the creation of what today is designated as Port Arthur—the fastest growing city in the southland.

There will be congratulations from Governor Neff of Texas. Mayors of the cities of Beaumont, Lake Charles and Orange will be present in person. It is planned. During the parade they will carry flags of distinction in the newly erected reviewing stand in the 900 block of Proctor.

The afternoon will be given over entirely to a series of separate attractions. Sport events will get under way at 3 p. m. There will be a basketball game on Lakeshore diamond and two basketballs on Waco avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets will be made into a race track, for competitors in the many contests scheduled to be pulled off. Foot races, freck races and like stunts will make up the program. Prizes will be completed for.

Dog Show at 3:15

At 3:15 p. m. entries will close in the just past dog show to be held alongside the Hart Drug company store on Austin just off of Proctor street. Five individual awards will be made of winners. The entrants are restricted to dogs unknown to the blue bloods and pedigreed members of the club, and each must be on a leash and accompanied by a Port Arthur boy or girl of 15 years of age or under.

The Port Arthur Centennial baby show will get under way at 4 o'clock in the basement of the First Methodist church at Stulwell boulevard and Lakeshore street. Prize babies of the city who have been entered not later than Monday forenoon will be judged and awarded.

The pipe organ recital will immediately follow the baby contest and will last a full hour, affording opportunity for visitors to rest themselves in an

Simultaneously with these affairs, the winners in the Centennial Waiskiss club will be chosen and announced in front of the Newport cafe in Austin avenue.

Queen Mary's Ball.

Following the supper hour, all the bands in the city will converge in the queen's court of honor block for a concert, beginning at 7 o'clock. Platforms, bar pins, set with diamonds, decorative handwrought, will be presented to members of the queen's court at the conclusion of the concert, as keepsakes to recall the occasion. Port Arthur's big birthday cake will be cut and distribution of prizes therein will be made.

At 9:15 $8000 worth of aerial fireworks will be shot into the heavens from two large floats placed in Lake Sabine, just opposite the downtown part of the city. These displays will be so placed as to be distinctly visible from most any point along Lakeshore drive.

Chimneying the whole day's celebration will be Queen Mary's ball. The court of honor will be cut out into a dance floor with music stationed at frequent points along the way.

Conclusion of the majestic ball will bring down the curtain. With the fading melody of "Home, Sweet Home," the first quarter centennial of Port Arthur will have passed into history.

K.C.S. to Open Crossing On West 17, Says Logan

Despite objections of officials of the Kansas City Southern railroad to opening a crossing of their tracks on West Seventeenth street, the crossing will have to be made, Mayor J. P. Logan said today, commenting upon a conference between himself and officials of the road Monday night.

The railroad officials objected to the crossing on the grounds that so many crossings in the city heighten the danger of automobile and train accidents. Mayor Logan said:

"The city's argument in the case that the railroad school is located on West Seventeenth street, was presented by the mayor, with the word the city insists on the railroad opening the crossing."

Mayor Logan said he understands that the city railroad will go ahead with the job, as requested by the city.

During the early morning conference, the champion, Great Falls, is interested in the fight, admitted that he didn't have one single cent with which to guarantee the final payment of the Dempsey purse. It was then that Kearns made terms by which a settlement was effected.

Kearns said early today that he was going to Shelby to look the situation over and have something to say about the sale of tickets on the final day.

Dempsey Unperturbed

During all the excitement the champion was spending his time at training camp playing hearts with his sparring partners and a few friends who had jumped away from the financial straits of the town to keep him company.

Kearns said he had signed the contract in good faith and had turned down several good offers for the champion on the national holiday but that he had signed a contract with persons he thought responsible and that he was willing and ready to go through with it.

Kearns also declared he was unable to learn who was in charge of the Shelby ticket office and that he was leaving this morning to watch the sale of tickets.

The manager of the champion said also that he had reached an agreement with Eddie Kane, manager of the challenger, and that they had agreed there would be a fight for the world's heavyweight championship in Shelby July 4 between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons.

The explanation was accepted by the commission and the bill oked for payment.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE

An ordinary looking man wearing a last season's negligee shirt stepped into the business office and unfolded a strip of manuscript some three feet long.

"I wanted to see you about this little thing I want to put in the paper. There are fifteen verses besides the other reading matter. The verses are on spring. My handwriting is a trifle illegible and I may have to read it over to you. This is the way it runs:

SPRING

The air is flowing gently zephyrs. Grass is growing green. Winter now has nearly left us. Spring has come, I swear. When the sun has set, the vapors rise from out the meadows low. When the stars are lit like tapers. Then the night winds chilly blow.

"Take that stuff up to the editorial department," said the business manager shortly.

"I have been up there already," said the ordinary looking man, "and they sent me down here. This will fill about a column. I want to talk with you about the price. The last verse runs this way:

"Then it is that weakening languor. Thickens in our veins the blood. And we must wait off these dangers. Ere we find our names are 'Mud'."

"The reading matter that follows is, as you see, type written, and easily read. Now, I—

"Don't you come in here reading your old spring poems to me. I've been bored already today with a lot of ink and paper drummings. Why don't you go to work instead of fooling away your time on old like that?"

"I didn't mean to bother you," said the other man, rolling up his manuscript. "Is there another paper in the city?"

"Yes, there's a few. Have you got a family?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then why in thunder don't you get into some decent business. Instead of going around writing confounded trash and reading it to busy people? Ain't you got any manhood about you?"

"Excuse me for troubling you," said the ordinary looking man, as he walked toward the door. "I tell you how it is. I cleared over $50,000 last year on these little things I write. I am placing my spring and summer ads for the Sarsaparilla firm, of which I am a member. I divided to place about $1,000 in advertising in this town. I will see the other paper you spoke of. Good morning!"

The business manager has since become so cautious that all the amateur poets in the city now practice reading their verses to him, and he listens without a murmur.

YOU AND I

BOOTLEGGERS

This prohibition mess, ultimately will resolve itself into a problem of dealing with the bootleggers. (Don't take that the wrong way.) Right now, the customer is getting much official attention. Not he, but his dealer, is the real hot to crack.

Some states report that 75 to 80 per cent of apprehended bootleggers are aliens, not citizens. Why not deport them? Even though it might keep all our ships busy a year or two.

CAUGHT

Uncle Sam this fiscal year will collect 200 million dollars of back taxes covering 1919, 1920 and 1921. Some of this involved honest disputes. Much of it represents uncovered fraud.

The crooked dealers are learning that when they get into an argument with the national government they are up against the real thing. Uncle Sam isn't bunked and bluffed as easily as states and municipalities.

CHINKS

Are we Americans becoming more honest? Chinese Free Masons seem to think so. At their outings in New York, the white men are invited as guests. The Hip Sinc recently have been paying their watches at home when they invited white men along, profiting from past experience.

Speaking of the brotherhood of man, when you are in a dense crowd how often do you feel to learn if you walked in safe? Small wonder, it's so difficult to get real co-operation.

VENUS

Any one wearing a one-piece bathing suit at Coney Island this summer will be arrested, announces Gillen, captain of police at this world's greatest mob resort.

The amusing thing about his proclamation is that it apparently applies to men as well as women, which is highly unusual. It is a regulation that will be approved joyfully by the blind.

ALASKA

President Harding is on his way to Alaska, purchased from the Russian government in 1867 for $7,200,000. William H. Seward was secretary of state and his political enemies designated the purchase as "Seward's folly." According to a well known magazine writer, Alaska has cost the United States a total of $200,000,000 since 1867 and has produced in its mines, fisheries and fur industries, products to the value of $1,100,000,000.

Alaska is an empire in itself. In size, we are told, it is equal to the entire acreage of the Louisiana purchase. Its mineral wealth is said to be inexhaustible. Its timber wealth is so great that its value has never been estimated. Alaska contains 590,884 square miles, an area one-fifth as large as the total territory embraced in the 48 states of the union.

Its permanent population is now fixed at 60,000, of which about one-half are whites, and the rest Indians, half-breeds and Eskimos. Its population decreased 10,000 between 1910 and 1920, the greatest decrease being in the years of the World war.

There is a government owned and operated railroad in Alaska which cost the people $36,000,000. This line extends from Seward to Fairbanks, a distance of 467 miles "penetrating into the very heart of the territory and is the first railroad built and operated by the government."

Alaska is the greatest of all countries in its mineral wealth. It has rich deposits of gold, silver, copper and all other minerals. It has vast mountains of hard and soft coal awaiting development. It is rich in petroleum, quick silver and platinum. Its fisheries are the envy of the peoples of all other nations.

Its timbered forests cover an area of 20,578,336 acres. Estimates of the amount of timber for which there is a market run around seventy-five million board feet of hemlock, spruce, red cedar and yellow cypress. Lastly a magazine writer who knows of Alaska and its matchless undeveloped wealth after years of study and research, asserts "the president will walk or ride over ground which contains untold treasure, billions on billions, sealed up by nature, until the hands and tools of man shall bring them to light."

Alaska has the tallest mountain peaks in the world; Alaska has the longest rivers in the world; Alaska has the richest mineral deposits in the world; Alaska has forests of hard wood and soft wood trees which are as magnificent as can be found under any flag in any clime.

All that Alaska appears to lack is population and transportation facilities. Alaska is not an arctic wilderness. Alaska is not icebound and frozen over. Alaska some day will support a population of millions of Americans who are builders and developers and wealth makers. President Harding will get a close up view of Alaska. He has been an editor and publisher all his life. He is a product of that America west of the Allegheny mountains.

A territory that has earned a profit of $900,000,000 since its purchase in 1867 deserves well at the hands of the lawmakers of the United States. It is a territory that contains billions of undeveloped wealth and geologists say that its anteaite wealth alone represents a wealth of billions of dollars. For the reason that the scientists who have gone over the ground declare that there are more than seven billion tons of anthracite coal awaiting the coming of the miner and the railroad. Pennsylvania has a monopoly of the anthracite coal production in the United States. All this will be changed some day. It will come with the building of additional railway mileage in Alaska and the development of the mineral wealth of this marvelous country under the midnight sun.

State Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell, in a recent address, asserted that while the federal government is spending $36,000,000 annually in the name of agriculture and has 19,000 persons employed in agriculture work, "they spent $145,000 for marketing purposes in Texas in 1921 and did not market as much as one pound of peanuts." It goes without saying that the year 1921 must have been a bad year for peanuts.

CAUCASIAN DOMINANT

There were wild writers when the World war was on who declared that the Caucasian race had been bled white and would not survive another great war. They had it all figured out. This world was to be given over to the dark faced races and the survivors of the Caucasian family would be the doormats of the conquerors.

Now William S. Rosviter, who is said to be high authority after a close study of the related rates of growth for a century, predicts that there will be two billion whites by the year 2020. He finds race suicide in China, in India, in Africa and among the aborigines in Australia but there is no race suicide visible on the continent of Europe or the continent of North America.

There is a thirteen per cent increase in the population of the United States every ten years and the same rate holds good wherever the white man has obtained a toe hold. He has been in the saddle thousands of years. He dominates the world today, dark faces and all, and if in 2020 there will be two billions of whites then the Lord will have to take care of the remnants of the dark skinned tribes.

MOISTURE IN NORTH IRELAND

There are six counties in what is known as North Ireland. There are many pros in the Ulster section of the Emerald Isle. There are 3,700 licensed saloons. Pro leaders demanded a closed Sunday. Sir James Craig is the prime minister of Ulster. He is a leading distiller. Now the prime minister and those who are engaged in the trade have proposed a compromise. They demand that the hours of sale shall be from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. on week days and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. on Sundays. The north Ireland government is friendly to the program but the pros are vehement as well as indignant. While the row is on Pussfoot Johnson of the United States is on his way to India where the Moslems lounge and drink whiskey and when ever they can get it. Pussfoot Johnson's mission is to show the Moslems that they are not running true to form or to the teachings of the Koran.

Ocean City is a New Jersey summer resort. It boasts of thousands of cottages and hotel guests. Blue law reformers inaugurated a crusade. Then the other side retaliated, and now it is a misdemeanor in Ocean City to sell candy, ice cream or soda water and those who play golf or lawn tennis are threatened with jail sentences. There is always something doing under the flag.

"Texas gets back less than two per cent of the amount she pays to the general government," thunders a Texas office holder. Correct. The other 98 cents goes to the payment of war debts. Always the fiddler must be paid.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRECUT TO MRS. JOSEPH GRAYES HAMILTON

DEAR MOTHER: It was an unfortunate turn in events that made me arrive home just three hours after you and dad had left. I think it was horrid for dad's secretary to get sick just at this time.

I know you are most interested in my visit to Jack's mother, for, of course, you must have had some feeling of my feelings in the matter from the letter I wrote you.

Well as Jack says, it was some visit. You remember all about my saying I did not believe Mrs. Prescott was ill at all. I think it was just a conspiracy to get Jack over there and tell him about me and get some money out of Jack.

Both Mrs. Prescott and Miss Bradford were surprised and chagrined when I made my appearance and things went from bad to worse until a climax. Karl Wilkney made his appearance on the scene at what seems to be the angriest hour of 9 o'clock.

It was bad enough for Karl to call upon me at all but to come in the middle of the night was unbearable. He has probably showed you before this Alice's wireless. What did Alice mean when she said, 'I shall wear the pearl ring and thing of your goodness whenever I look at it'?

Surely you do not intend that Alice and Karl shall be engaged. I think Karl rather wanted me to ask him for an explanation, but I would not do that. It seemed to me it was making too much of it.

I merely said, 'Karl, I think it is foolish for you to give a girl as young as Alice a pearl ring. She is too young to wear expensive jewels.' He made no reply to this.

Well, mother dear, I have to report that your daughter is a nasty little cat. Things came to a showdown at the home of Jack's mother. Right before Karl I made it perfectly clear that either Peisilla Bradford should leave the house or I would, and then I had a taste of the splendid Indian aristocracy of the Puritan blood.

With perfect politeness, and kindness in a way that I could take no offense I was dismissed. I really admired Jack's mother more at that time than any other.

I went to the next town with Karl and arrived home to tell my troubles to Jack. He was much more angry than I.

Mother Jack's a dear but somehow he seems very much worried lately. I can't understand it at all. It cannot be money troubles for in the few months we have been married he has had his salary boosted and earned two big bonuses besides.

Did you notice mother dear while you were here that when he thinks no one is looking at him a worried look comes into his eyes? It grieves me greatly that he does not confide in me but I am not going to worry him about it.

I really have very little curiosity you know. I have always believed that any one whom you loved should be allowed to tell as much or as little as he wished of his own affairs. I think that is a mark of your loyalty.

Curiosity I believe is a vice which sometimes masquerades as virtue. Would you say it is a virtue which sometimes masquerades as a vice? I like all good things in this world it can be orebore.

We would know nothing in this world if we did not question our selves or each other, but still a person can "butt in" to another's affairs and make unhappiness for everyone. I am kind of all mixed up but anyway I am your

Loving

LESLIE.

LEATRICE JOY STARS

An advance notice says: Leatrice Joy, Lewis Stone, Nita Naldi and Pauline Garon a quartet of featured names have a desirable effect—that of encouraging one to settle down and prepare to view a good picture. There will be no disappointment for you in "You Can't Fool Your Wife," a good picture from various angles. It is an interesting sort of modern society drama, a production worthy of favorable comment. The picture plunges directly into the story, then keeps on telling it convincingly and entertainingly, taking a firm grip on the interest at the start and holding on with enjoyable tenacity.

There are lavish sets, beautiful locations, women in smart apparel and men like those one meets in every day life, at least in the newspapers. "You Can't Fool Your Wife" opens for a four-day engagement tomorrow at the Peoples theater.

JACKIE COOGAN HERE

An advance notice says: With his pet pig, his too big trousers, his fiddle, a bowl of unmanageable spaghetti, a shower bath and a hundred and one other things, Jackie Coogan as a tiny street filler in his latest production "Daddy," which opened today at the Pearce theater for a four-day engagement, will keep you in a constant state of laughter and just to prove that he's not all comedian, but a great little tragedian as well, there will be times when tears will dim the eyes and a lump will come into the throat. More admirable than ever as the merry little soldier of misfortune who runs away to the city to find his fortune and finds a Daddy instead, Jackie will endure himself forever in the hearts of picture-goers.

Jackie is the symbol of the eternal kid—and no matter how old we grow there is always the magic of youth to lure us back again to childhoods glorious, hour.

BLIND OPERATES PHONE BOARD THROUGH EARS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 30.—Carl Wiley, a blind boy who is night telephone switchboard operator at the telephone hospital here, has attracted attention for his almost uncanny ability to distinguish sounds. This most unusual feat is operation of the telephone switchboard with virtually no help but his ears.

The attendants in charge of wiring all over the great hospital report every half hour during the night, Wiley's hearing is so acute that he is able to tell what station the call comes from by the sound of the buzzer, although to the ordinary ear all the buzzers sound alike.

When he first took the position he placed ticks, arranged in Braille characters, above the socket for each station so he could tell what station was ringing by feeling with his fingers. His development of the sense of hearing, has enabled him to discern this system.

40 STATES HAVE MATERNITY LAW

Opposition Dwindling Fast Is Report

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Thousands of lives of mothers and their babies have been saved during the period of approximately one year that the Sheppard-Towner maternity act has been in active operation, according to officials of the children's bureau of the department of labor here, which has charge of the administration of the act.

In this first year of the life of the act much has occurred to encourage the women of the country who supported and finally won the proposal that the federal government get behind better education of mothers, both before and after birth.

"We have found the women in all parts of the country pathetically eager for the instruction offered under the maternity act," officials of the children's bureau of the department of labor said.

These officials admit that there have been scoffers at the act and also active antagonists against it, on the ground that the federal government is becoming too paternalistic. But for the most part the opposition to the maternity act is said to be dwindling fast.

The Women Walked Out

As an example of the antagonism to the maternity act, a report received here states that at a meeting for the instruction of mothers in a rural district of the south, half a dozen women stalked out of the room when the instructor began speaking. The Lord gives and the Lord takes away, and it's not for us to thwart Him.

However, the southern states are in the vanguard of progress under the maternity act. All the southern states except Louisiana have accepted the funds of the federal government under the act and have been actively engaged in the work. The contrast with New England, where so far only New Hampshire has accepted the maternity act.

"Of the entire contrary forty states have now accepted the terms of the act. The eight that have not accepted are Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Boston in Supreme Court

Massachusetts brought a suit contending that the maternity act was unconstitutional, and a woman of Boston entered suit as a taxpayer attacking the act. But the supreme court recently handed down a decision dismissing both of these cases for want of jurisdiction.

Friends of the maternity act say that one great argument for the law is the fact that the latest available figures for maternity mortality in the United States and foreign countries show that the United States is far ahead of almost all of these countries in the number of deaths of mothers at child-birth, showing the need of some measure such as this act.

HED SWEAR TO IT

A certain lawyer had found the witness difficult to manage, and finally asked whether he was acquainted with any of the men on the jury.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness, "more than half of them."

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them," demanded the lawyer.

"Why," retorted the witness, "if it comes to that, I'm willing to swear that I know more than all of them put together."

Mrs. W. K. Steen Is Feted By Mrs. C. F. Dickey on Eve Of Departure for St. Louis

PORT ARTHUR society will lose one of its most gracious members in the person of Mrs. W. K. Steen, who leaves within the next two weeks to join Mr. Steen in St. Louis, Mo., where they will make their home. Mrs. Steen's departure from Port Arthur will be heralded with much regret for Mrs. Steen is a charming woman and a delightful hostess in the city and has been actively engaged in church work while in Port Arthur, at present being the president of the Federated Missionary Societies.

Many delightful hospitalities are being arranged for Mrs. Steen, prior to her departure for St. Louis, and the social calendar will probably record several delightful events within the next few days.

Among the charming affairs tendered Mrs. Steen since the announcement of her leaving Port Arthur last week was Mrs. Charles F. Dickey's informal bridge party at her home, 2811 Fourth street, when she assembled a few friends in her new home. In arranging the lovely summer blossoms about the rooms given over to the hospitality, Mrs. Dickey achieved an unusually distinctive effect with the clusters of lovely roses, anemones, crepe myrtle, daisies and other varicolored summer flowers, making the environment of typical summer time nature.

At the close of the games hand-some trophies for success were awarded, with Mrs. C. A. Pearson receiving the first prize and a lovely guest favor being awarded to Mrs. Steen. Mrs. Frank Y. Low received the prize for low score. Punch and mint were served during the games, following which the hostess offered a dainty ice course. Little Miss Jewell Gandy of Beaumont entertained with several musical selections during the late hours of the afternoon.

The personnel of the charming complimentary included Mrs. W. K. Steen, Mrs. H. L. Woodall, Mrs. Frank Y. Low, Mrs. A. V. Cuthrell, Mrs. O. G. Wilson of Des Moines, Iowa, Mrs. K. A. Young, Mrs. C. A. Pearson, Mrs. John W. Tryon, Mrs. H. Gaddy of Beaumont, Mrs. J. H. Sawyer of Beaumont, Mrs. C. A. Richardson of Beaumont, Little Miss Jewell Gandy of Beaumont, Mrs. Faye Dickey, and Mrs. Charles F. Dickey.

ALTHOUGH the month of June has passed into oblivion, June brides continue to be an interesting factor in the scheme of social activities, the latest announcement of a June wedding being contained in the following extract from The Smithville Times:

"A marriage ceremony of considerable interest to our people took place at the country home of the bride's parents near Waxahachie Saturday evening at eight o'clock. The contracting parties were Walter J. Byrne of Port Arthur, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Byrne of this city, and Miss Hazel Hosford, one of our teachers in Smithville's schools, the past term, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hosford of Waxahachie.

"A large company of relatives of bride and groom were present, as were also the club girls of Trinity University, with whom the bride has always stood in great favor. Just preceding the ceremony, following the wedding march, as played upon the violin by one of the girl friends, ushered the bride party into the room that had been transformed into a veritable garden of Shasta daisies, fern and sweet peas, for there was an abundance of these beautiful flowers used in the pretty decorations, and here they were met by the officiating clergyman beneath a canopy of sweet peas, where the marriage vows were taken. The impressive ceremony was used and was read by the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which the bride has been a member for a number of years.

"The bride was charming in a beautiful gown of navy blue tulle, with hat and accessories to match, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and sweetpeas. Mr. Byrne was attired in a suit of navy blue.

"Mr. and Mrs. Byrne took the night train for South Texas where they spent their honeymoon at Galveston, leaving there on Thursday for their future home at Port Arthur, where Mr. Byrne is with the First National bank of Port Arthur, and where for the present they will be located at 1830 Fifth street.

"Smithville friends join The Times in hearty good wishes for every good thing that can come to these estimable young people in their journey through life together. Mrs. Byrne has endeavored herself to a host of friends in our city, during the year she has spent in our midst; and we are happy to hear of this delightful romance culminating in the event of Saturday evening. Mr. Byrne, of whom we rather speak as Walter, for he is known to Smithville, was only loaned him to Port Arthur, is a young man of sterling worth. He is a former student at Cavendish School, Ithaca, New York, where he made an excellent record among the student body, as student and athlete. He returned to Smithville and entered the employ of the First National Bank and several months ago left here to accept a position with the First National Bank of Port Arthur. That he is rapidly proving himself in his chosen profession, and is gaining the attention of his superiors, is attested by the fact that he has received two promotions since accepting his position at Port Arthur."

THE FIDELITY CLASS OF THE First Baptist church met in regular monthly business session last evening in the Fidelity classroom at the church. An enthusiastic meeting was held and plans were discussed and perfected for enlarging the class. Miss Minerva May was elected second vice-president of the class.

The contest, which closed last Sunday with the Redbirds as victors, will probably result in an entertainment next week. Further announcement of the affair will be made later. The

RAINBOW VETS TO HOLD REUNION

Gen. Gouraud of 4th Army Is Guest of Honor

INDIANAPOLIS, July 3.—With General John J. Pershing and General Henri Gouraud, the one-armed fighter of France, among the guests, the Rainbow veterans' division from 28 states will gather here July 13 for their three days' annual encampment.

General Gouraud, under whose command the division served in the Champagne offensive of July, 1918, left Paris on June 23 for the United States.

He is being sent by the French war department at the request of the national officers of the Rainbow veterans' association, to extend anew the greetings of the French people to the American veterans.

Pershing to Attend
Definite assurance has been given by the war department at Washington that General Pershing will be in the city for the reunion.

Major Shank and a committee of 200 Indianapolis citizens are making preparations for the entertainment of from 5,000 to 10,000 veterans. The major says he will turn the city over to the veterans. They will be given free transportation on the city street cars and theaters and movie houses will throw their doors open to the visitors.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, national president of the Rainbow veterans and former commander of the 105th infantry—New York's "Fighting Sixty-Ninth"—will be on the grounds early July 13 for the reception of the veterans.

Free Boxing Provided
Thirty-eight rounds of boxing will be provided free that night at the Washington park. Saturday, July 14, will be declared a municipal holiday for the huge military parade which will have Generals Gouraud and Pershing at its head. This is the anniversary of the French national independence day, and the day on which the Germans launched their final offensive against American and French troops in the Champagne in 1918.

A great barbecue will be held for the veterans at the State Fair grounds on Saturday night. Wives of the former service men will be entertained at a special banquet downtown.

On Sunday morning special memorial services will be held at the Soldiers and Sailors monument for the fallen Rainbow veterans. The reunion will close Sunday evening.

The reunion of the division, which was made up of crack national guard units from 28 states and the District of Columbia is expected to attract thousands from every part of the country.

Ohio branches have asked for a thousand rebate railroad tickets. New York is expected to send more than 100 and Minnesota has a large delegation preparing for the event.

Other states which will be well represented, according to advance reports reaching national officers are Illinois, Alabama, Iowa, California, Georgia and Maryland.

German Doctors Are Angry at Restriction

BERLIN, July 3.—German physicians and surgeons are angered at the national restrictions against passes for foreigners desirous of having treatment here.

They have registered with the foreign office serious objection to the restrictions, saying that their profession is suffering from this discrimination, while many foreigners are suffering an unfavorable impression of the government methods.

They likewise complain that export taxes on medical and other books are harming the reputation of the once highly regarded German medical world. Instead, France and England are now selling medical works to foreign customers, say the doctors, and in this way Germany is losing a source of revenue.

The walls of the doctors are in line with other similar regrets from other sources, namely, Germany is beginning to rue its impolite and grasping treatment of the stranger within its gates the past summer.

EUROPEAN CLERGYMEN TO URGE CHURCH UNITY

NEW YORK, July 3.—President Boynton of the Christian Unity Foundation, announces that five distinguished European clergymen will attend the annual meeting of the world alliance through the churches to be held in Philadelphia November 12-15. They will arrive in October and deliver addresses in different cities before the Philadelphia meeting.

The visitors will be: Archbishop Soderstrom of Uppsala, Sweden; Dr. Thomas Nijmegen, secretary of the Free Council of Churches of England and Wales; Prof. Adolf Deissmann of the University of Berlin, one of the foremost New Testament scholars in the world; the Bishop of St. Albans, England; Rev. J. Brierley Kay, rector of one of the leading Episcopal churches in London.

NEWSPAPER ADS ARE BEST, REALTORS TOLD

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 3.—Advising the brokers' division meeting, Frank Ryan of Los Angeles, president of the national association of real estate boards, urged constant war on shyster real estate men, observance of a code of ethics, continual education of the dealer and the gradual raising of the business to the levels of a profession.

Newspaper advertising is the best and the cheapest method of teaching prospective buyers. A. E. French of St. Louis told the delegates.

A VIEW OF PART OF THE NEWS' BIGGEST EDITION IN SOUTH TEXAS

The special edition published on Sunday, July 1, 1923, by The Port Arthur News just preceding the celebration of the quarter centennial of the city on July 4, was the second largest single newspaper ever published in the state of Texas. A Dallas newspaper only has exceeded the News' special edition in size, and that by only a dozen pages. Herewith is shown, only one-third of the total papers issued by The News Sunday. There are ten rows of papers shown, each four stacks deep and each copy consisting of 100 newspaper pages, including comic section and Rotogravure section.

Says England and France Are At the Parting of the Ways

Sir Charles Accuses France Of Using the Reparations Problem As Excuse for Staying in Ruhr

By SIR CHARLES ROSS, Bart. (Copyright, 1923, by United Press.) (By arrangement with "The Outlook" (London))

LONDON, July 3.—If France did not exist, and the reparations dispute were one between Great Britain and Germany, it is clear that a settlement would be at hand.

The Bonar Law scheme called for a total payment by Germany to the allies of fifty milliard gold marks. Germany has definitely offered thirty milliards, payable in annuities, and has explained, as she never did before, how she intends to pay. On the whole, the German scheme has been well received here.

But Berlin clearly does not mean Germany's latest memorandum was taken as her final word. She is keeping in reserve further concessions, to be taken in this country. Such a conference, were the settlement of reparations left to Great Britain and Germany, could almost certainly, in very short time, arrive at a figure in the neighborhood of forty milliards of gold marks as the total German bill, and then agree without impossibility difficulty upon the method and dates of payment.

With this settled the stabilization of the mark and the recovery of Germany would be no less rapid than in the case of Austria. And with the withdrawal of foreign armies from German soil, and the return of Europe to peaceful habits, the clogged channels of international trade would be reopened and prosperity be again within our grasp.

France an Obstacle

The one obstacle to a final liquidation of the war, and the real cause of economic recovery in France, it is easy to summarize the proceedings of the French government, since it became known that Berlin was about to seek a genuine reconciliation with her creditors. First, there was the Belgian reparations scheme. That provided for a total payment of forty milliards, and after round-table bargaining might easily have been accepted by the Germans. Therefore it would not suit the French, and so M. Poincare hurried to Brussels, compelled the Belgians to give unwilling assent to remaining in the Ruhr until every penny of an astronomical indemnity has been paid, and refused to discuss the Belgian plan. The German memorandum followed. The British memorandum the stand that here at least is a basis of negotiation. The method to be followed was plain, and fair to all. We asked only for discussion.

The Paris conference ended in disaster. M. Poincare refused even to examine Mr. Bonar Law's plan, a "peace" between the allies followed and France entered the Ruhr. The French are in the Ruhr. M. Poincare has ever since maintained, to seize "productive guarantees" that will insure payment by Germany. Now that Germany has at last proposed to pay, M. Poincare may claim, without undue contradiction from England, if he chooses, that his Ruhr policy has produced a German capitulation.

Let us grant so much to save the face of France. The course now to be followed, in the British view, is clear. Our diplomats have suggested in CHICAGO, July 3.—Optometrists now in annual congress here, announced that blondes with baby blue eyes are rapidly approaching extinction in this part of the world.

Baby Blue-Eyed Blondes Vanishing, Say Eye Docs

"It's all on account of the intense light in this latitude," explained Dr. Paul, chairman of the congress. "Pigment protects the retina by screening out the destructive light rays and the blonde, with not enough pigment for our intense light, suffers accordingly."

"The blonde, of course, comes from Northern Europe, where the light is softer than here, while the brunette comes from warmer, sunny climes. In America, the brunette has a marked optical advantage over her fair haired sister."

"The only thing the blue-eyed baby doll can do to keep from going the way of the buffalo and the dodo is to wear glasses that shut out the ultra violet rays—but can you imagine a blue-eyed flapper trying to practice wiles through smoked glasses?"

People with blue eyes were advised to roll them frequently, look up from their work often, give plenty of fresh air and frequent bathtubs in cold water, sit up straight and as often as possible look at green grass or flowers or the blue sky.

HALF-POUND NUGGET OF PURE GOLD FOUND

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., July 3. Carl Sextus, old-time prospector here, has created considerable excitement in mining circles by finding the largest gold nugget ever discovered in the Cripple Creek region—a nugget declared to be of pure gold, weighing half a pound.

Sextus found the big nugget in the stream bed of Cripple Creek. In the past, several prospectors have made their livings discovering nuggets in the creek, but this one is said to be the largest one ever found.

Reparations an Excuse

Here we have the clock set back two years—a naked claim to the 6,000,000,000 pounds which every authority in the world knows Germany cannot pay. France proposes to stay in the Ruhr, and wants the reparations problem kept in being as an excuse. From that conclusion there is now no escape.

What are we to do now? France by her attitude ranks this country with Germany. Considering the magnitude of our interests involved, we are being subjected to such humiliation as Great Britain has never for centuries endured at the hands of any foreign power. Mr. Baldwin (the premier) has only three courses open to him.

He can surrender to France; he can, like his predecessor, do nothing; or he can let things drift from bad to worse. We are confident that neither the path of surrender nor of negotiation will be chosen.

There remains only an active policy, fraught with difficulties, but worthy of the traditions of our people. When France sees we are in earnest the insane arrogance manifest in Paris may be abated.

If not, we must seek new friends. We must play our lone hand, in the knowledge that the sympathies of almost all the world are with us. We shall be fighting for sanity against ignorance and prejudice, for reason against passion, for fair play against injustice, for a world of peace and order, against a now and imminent holocaust, in which what is left of the civilization of Europe must be swallowed up.

Poison Trades Interest Her

She Is Medical Professor at Harvard

BOSTON, July 3.—Teaching at Harvard is only a side line for Dr. Alice Hamilton, only woman professor at the university medical school. She spends only half her time at it, for the rest is devoted to the "poison trades."

A specialist in industrial hygiene, Dr. Hamilton has conducted innumerable investigations into those industries where the danger is greatest. As a result of her activity, much remedial legislation has been passed to make the factory safer for the worker.

"Of the poison trades," says Dr. Hamilton, "the lead trades rank the highest. The number of industries using this poisonous lead is enormous. In Illinois I made an investigation recently, there were more than 70 different trades in which lead was used."

"The making of white lead, the smelting, manufacture of storage batteries, practically all piping and plumbers' supply trades, the printers' pottery glazing, all rank as dangerous trades, because of their danger of poisoning the worker. There is danger, too, in the manufacture of aniline dyes, and the making of felt hats in which nitrate of mercury is used."

"There has been a complete revolution of the white lead industry since 1912. Few women are engaged in the poison trades here, and the United States is much better off in this respect than Europe."

JAP GIRL SEEKS OPERA CAREER

Stenographic Work Only Stepping Stone

NEW YORK, July 3.—The "East is East and the West is West" but the twins have met in a New York skyscraper.

They have been joined by a little Japanese girl, nine-skinned and almond-eyed, who has become one of the most popular stenographers there.

She is Yae-Ko San Kojima, whose name interpreted from the Japanese means Little Miss Morning Glory. She is a business woman filled with ambition for a career. And it is the music of omen, not the typewriter, that fascinates her.

For although Miss Kojima's salary as private secretary to an influential business man is interesting enough to hold any person steady for a while, she herself knows she's never going to have a moment's peace until she lands in grand opera.

"My business career is just a stepping stone," she explains. "I know I can do anything I want to, do because of my mother."

"My mother was married when she was very young and then she committed the unpardonable sin in Japan—of having six daughters. As she looked about upon the other women over there she made up her mind that her daughters should never be like that—that they should have freedom and a chance to choose their own husbands."

"All alone she came to America. And although she didn't find the 'freedom' she had pictured, still she persisted until she could send for us. Then she induced my father to come too."

"Now one of my sisters is a graduate of a college of pharmacy, a second works in a bank, while the others are married."

Business men in that skyscraper office, are not nearly so enthusiastic about Miss Kojima's operatic ambitions.

"The best stenographer we ever had," they say.

Birth of an Island In Pacific Described By Steamer Captain

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The birth of an island is described in a report received by the hydrographer's office from Captain George B. O'Connor, master of the steamship Jacob, who declared he was an eyewitness to at least part of the phenomenon.

Recently while on his usual route from Singapore, the captain said, a violent disturbance was noted on the surface of the sea at latitude 10.05 north and longitude 100.00 east, where a mass of dark in color with straight sides, about 100 feet in height and between two and three miles in length had risen above the water.

PLAN HEAD TAX FOR OLD AGE PENSIONS

CHICAGO, July 3.—A head tax of two dollars a year would provide old age insurance for every individual in the United States, declared D. P. Markey, supreme commander of the Macabees, in an address here to the final meeting of the conference of fraternal societies on old age pensions.

"England is paying a tax of three dollars a year for old age pensions," he said, "but that is excessive. The fraternal societies in this country have worked out figures so that home life, private rooms, medical care and a comfortable scale of living can be provided for the full proportion of dependent aged persons in their membership for a tax inside of two dollars a year."

OLD CLOTHES SAME AS CASH IN AMERICA

ALEXANDROPOL, Armenia, July 3.—A bale of secondhand American clothes paid the rent bill of the largest orphanage in the world for the past six months. It was given by the Near East relief in exchange for the use of the few privately owned buildings included in the equipment of its orphanage center here, where approximately 20,000 Armenian youngsters are sheltered.

The native textile industry has been destroyed almost entirely, and the depreciation of native currency has made the importation of cloth practically impossible. As a result garments of all sorts are in high demand and American relief workers have been able to use clothing contributions from the United States as cash.

SLAYER IS PAROLED TO WATCH HAY CROP

RENO, Nev., July 3.—James T. Vestal does not need to worry about his hay crop. Vestal recently began serving a prison sentence for shooting a neighbor after a dispute about a fence. The man he left to care for his ranch while he served his sentence told the state parole board that he was not competent to care for the harvesting of Vestal's hay crop alone. The board paroled Vestal to look after it.

13,000,000 AUTOS IN WESTERN HEMISPHERE

DETROIT, Mich., July 3.—The United States, according to the figures compiled by the U. S. Bureau of public roads, has in round numbers 12,800,000 cars and trucks. Canada has 487,099 automobiles and the balance of North and Central America and South America has 235,933.

The eastern hemisphere has practically 1,600,000 cars against about 33,000,000 for the western hemisphere.

"The number of cars and trucks in use in a few of the principal overseas countries, according to the 1923 statistical number of Automotive Industries, February 2, 1923, follows: United Kingdom, 554,443; Canada, 487,099; France, 290,303; Germany, 120,000; Australia, 97,189; Argentina, 90,000; Italy, 65,000; India, 54,415; Spain, 37,500; Belgium, 45,388; South Africa, 35,500; New Zealand, 34,900; Sweden, 20,478; Mexico, 20,000; Brazil, 27,500; Switzerland, 21,000; Denmark, 20,100; Cuba, 25,000; Dutch East Indies, 23,000; Hawaii, 15,000; Algeria, 14,500; Malay Peninsula, 13,750; Uruguay, 13,500; Norway, 12,240; Poland, 13,000; Philippines, 13,000; Austria, 11,100; Netherlands, 10,750; Chile, 10,000; Japan, 8,801; China, 7,481; Porto Rico, 7,000.

EGYPT'S WOMEN ASK EDUCATION

Foreign Domination Prevents, Claim

ROME, July 3.—Mrs. Hoda Chakoni, Pasha, president of the Egyptian union for the political rights of women, and Miss Nabawia Moon, school inspector at Alexandria, who came to Rome as Egypt's delegates at the International Alliance of Women's Suffrage, told the correspondents of the United Press that while the question of polygamy is for Egypt a question of the most important nature, it is not the one which is most pressing.

"There is absolutely nothing in the Koran that prevents the emancipation of women, and under the Arabian law, as well as in old Egypt, women had the same rights of men, and ancient Egyptians sat next to their husbands, participated in the administration of the state, and often were called to succeed their husbands."

Guaranteed by Law
The right to educate themselves which the Egyptian women now claim is guaranteed by the religious and civil laws of the country and was fully granted to them under the rule of the Great Mahomed Ali, who threw open the doors of the Egyptian home and allowed the women to come out and attend the schools.

"But the situation changed suddenly and radically as soon as Sultan Khorri arrived in 1904, and for political reasons allied himself with Mustapha Kemal Pasha. Then three schools for girls were closed and the woman who wanted to be educated herself was forced to go abroad."

"Today there is another and we believe a permanent reason why the Egyptian woman wants education. Under present conditions, she seeks to earn her living, and the earning of living requires culture and training."

As to the question of polygamy Mrs. Hoda Chakoni said that high cost of living is taking good care of that.

Make Your Dollars Count in Advertising

The wise advertiser is he who concentrates his effort in the promotion of his business through the greatest of all forces—NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING. The scattering of advertising attempt or effort has been responsible for more advertising failures than any other one thing. Trying a little of billboards, a little direct mail, moving picture slides, handbills, programs and an occasional newspaper advertisement is like chaff in the winds.

The greatest audience in the world is reached through the daily newspaper. No other one thing—OR ALL OTHER THINGS COMBINED—can give the Port Arthur advertiser as much publicity as the daily newspaper. And the cost in the daily newspaper, if judiciously handled, is by far the least—by far the most effective. People buy daily newspapers for the express purpose of getting all that is latest in the day's events in order to keep abreast with the times. Shopping news has become one of the many interesting features of the daily newspaper and the reader takes that as a part of his daily newspaper program. In no other way can the reader be reached when the mind is so receptive; at no other time does the reader give advertising a serious thought. It is, indeed, the wise merchant or business man who concentrates his advertising in the daily newspapers.

ODDS AGAINST THE GAMBLERS

Only One Out of Every Ten Win, He Says

NEW YORK, July 3.—The "underdog" of Wall Street—Harold P. Coffin, federal referee in bankruptcy—gives these tips:

"If you play the market and gamble in stocks, the odds are nine to one against your making any money."

"Only one out of every 10 speculators comes out ahead; while from the very beginning the other nine are doomed to lose."

Coffin, who has occupied the spotlight during the recent explosive series of Wall Street failures, which brought several official investigations, gave his warning to prospective "lamb" in an interview with NEA Service.

These figures of the speculators' slim chances were supplied, Coffin said, by William S. Silkworth, just designated as president of the Consolidated Stock Exchange as the result of the exchange coming under the fire of city, state and federal agencies working to clean up Wall Street.

The toll of disaster in Wall Street has become so heavy that Coffin and his associates are working overtime trying to keep up with what he calls his job of financial "undertaker."

"About 2000 bankruptcy cases are pending right now," Coffin says, "and the most important of them are brokerage firm failures."

The bankruptcy referee is the fourth agency engaged in the big war on racketeers. The others are the city district attorney's office, prosecuting criminally; the state attorney general, operating under the Martin act to "padlock" offending firms; and the United States district attorney, handling civil suits.

All of them are co-ordinating their work to open the back door of Wall Street. But it was Coffin who is credited with applying the wedge that pried it open.

He did it with a 50-word order issued to the principals of E. M. Fuller & Co., first of the large brokerage houses to fail in the recent wave of financial collapse. The order directed the receiver of the bankrupt concern to turn over all books and records of the company without reservation.

As a result, Fuller and his partner, W. Frank McGee, are now in the Ludlow street jail under federal commitment for contempt of court, and are under sentence to serve one year and three months in Sing Sing.

Paris' Bounty Seekers Force Rockefeller, Jr. To Travel Incognito

PARIS, July 3.—Because the fame having spread throughout Europe of "the Rockefeller" as a benefactor, till every one here believes their bounty is to be had in unlimited quantities for the asking, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is having a hard time getting the rest for which he came to Paris.

Arriving last night, Rockefeller was forced to slip away from the station incognito and go to a small hotel to avoid the throngs bent on appealing to his generosity.

"I came for a rest, but I'm having a hard time getting it," John D. Jr., said.

PREACHES 71 YEARS; STILL GOING STRONG

OKEMAH, Okla., July 3.—Three score and eleven years in the pulpit and still going strong.

Such is the record of Rev. T. A. Boyden, who recently completed a series of meetings at the Baptist church at Paden, near here.

Boyden was educated for the priesthood, but entered the university at Ann Arbor, where he was graduated with the D. D. and L. L. D. degrees.

In his seventy-one years of preaching he has been in nearly every state in the union and at present is holding temporary appointments at Paden.

The aged minister was notified recently that he was the oldest member of the Old Fellows Lodge in the United States, probably in the world. He has been an active member of the order for 69 years and regularly attends the district and state meetings.

"I refuse to grow old. As a man I think—so is he," the veteran pastor declared.

HARD COAL OPERATORS TO MEET UNION CHIEFS

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Anti-trust coal operators have accepted the invitation of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America to meet with representatives of the United Mine Workers, districts one, seven and nine at Atlantic City on July 6 for the purpose of negotiating a new agreement in place of the present one expiring August 31, 1923.

S. D. Darriner, chairman of the anti-trust operators general policies committee, announced today.

GIRL DRIVER CUT TO PIECES BY A MOWER

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 3.—Vera Johnson, 17, a car girl of Westway, Kan., was brought to distance of 187 miles to a hospital here suffering from a mowing machine.

The girl's legs were literally cut to pieces when she fell into the machine, and physicians say there is little hope of saving her life.

BEAUTY CLAY PROMOTER MUST GO TO PHOENIX

DETROIT, Mich., July 3.—Joseph W. Boyd, said to have sold $100,000 worth of stock in two companies organized to produce "beauty clay" and wanted in Phoenix, Ariz., on a charge of using the mails to defraud, has been ordered returned to Phoenix by Judge Arthur J. Tuttle in federal court.

Boyd, arrested in Port Huron, Mich., was held in $25,000 bond when he appeared before Judge Tuttle.

Prince of Wales Fox Trot Invented by Noted Teacher for the Benefit of Her Apparent

Miss Sarah Lawrence and Arthur Murray, originator of the Prince of Wales fox trot, showing how it's done. Diagram shows position of leader's feet as he makes the half turn. Inset shows the Prince of Wales.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Here's the inside story of an important international incident.

America is going to teach Great Britain and her Prince of Wales a thing or two. It's a new dance called the Prince of Wales fox trot and dedicated to the royal heir by its American inventor. It's a jazz step too.

The thing was a secret. Plans and specifications were sent to the prince but the public was not supposed to get the details until July 9 when 1000 dancing teachers from all over the world are to assemble at the annual convention of the National Institute of Social Dancing.

But the usual leak occurred and the news is in position to announce on the best of authority the exact steps which the prince must take if he expects to shake the royal heel he is credited with shaking.

It may be a dance for a future king; but anyone can do it. All that's necessary is a little patience and tolerance.

Here's how it goes:

The man grips his partner lightly but firmly and takes three slow steps forward, counting carefully.

Then on the fourth count he extends his right foot in front, lifting it about two inches off the floor. If he's lucky enough to do it, let him point his toes downward at the same time.

Then comes a long step backward in the right foot (your own, not your partner's). On the next count (it's six if you keep count) extend the left foot back as far as it will go, lifting it slightly off the floor. Then take two steps forward and repeat the entire movement.

The woman closes her eyes and murmurs "oh, my darling, the Prince of Wales performs as follows:

She begins with her right foot takes three long slow walking steps backward, and then extends the left foot as far back as it will comfortably go, raising the toe two inches off the floor.

Let her partner step then takes a long step forward on her left foot and lifts the right foot slightly off the floor. Two long steps backward and she is in position to begin all over again.

Hugo Stinnes Is King Pin Of International Finance

His Ruhr Holdings Comprise Only a Small Part of His Interests—Branches in Other Fields

By GUS M. OKRM (United Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1923, by United Press.)

BERLIN, July 3.—Such an economic disturbance as naturally resulted from the occupation of the Ruhr by the French meant little or nothing in the sum total of Hugo Stinnes' activities.

Hugo Stinnes no longer merely a German industrialist but an international business giant, the network of whose interests stretch around the world—greatly increases the business lost in the Ruhr into his other holdings and quietly but regularly collects his dividends just the same.

Hugo Stinnes owns at least 70 big foreign enterprises, has heavy interests in at least 70 more and through them and other agencies has indirect interests in many more, not only in Europe, but in America and the Orient.

Stinnes' money is invested in Germany, in Austria and elsewhere—holdings which up to that time had been doing only normally well—branched out into honest-to-goodness concerns, increasing their output, taking on new employees and adding materially to the profits which go into the pocket of Hugo Stinnes.

Unworried by blockade.

And this internationalization of Stinnes' money made it possible for him to continue practically untouched by the French blockade of his Ruhr properties. For instance, the Austrian Alpine Mining and Smelting company owned and operated by Stinnes took a new lease on life when the Ruhr competition was nullified by the French. Instead of operating only nine or ten Martin ovens a last year, the concern today operates 16.

The number of workers last year greatly reduced, today totals 16,000, which compares favorably with pre-war days. And the business of these concerns for the first four months of 1923 totals 768,000 English pounds, 100,000 pounds—or nearly half a million dollars—more than during the same period of 1922.

And the bitterest part of it, from the German point of view, is that the Austrian holdings of Stinnes are connected through other connections with the Schneider-Creusots, known as the "French Krupp."

"Every disturbance automatically balances in one section the damage which it does in another," one expert declares, pointing out the danger to Germany and to the world of such a situation.

"This situation would be less dangerous if it were merely a business man who did not seek to influence political affairs," he writes. "The leader of the Stinnes' line, however, is in fact a political conspirator whose power can scarcely be overestimated. It is a fact that it is pure fiction to regard Stinnes merely as a German industrialist. He is international and as such is outside the realm of German financial restrictions and regulations."

This writer points out the inability of any German laws or rules connected with the stabilization of the mark in any way to effect such an international financial power as Stinnes, whose money is in all parts of the world—in all shapes and forms.

And Hugo Stinnes apparently is only beginning his world-wide activities. Since the war he has stretched his holdings everywhere. No branch of industry is without his influence. Electric enterprises, shipping, mining, transportation by land, river and sea, construction in fact practically all lines of human endeavor have Stinnes' money and Stinnes connections mixed up in them somewhere.

One can mention only a few Stinnes enterprises. Trifle interests like hotels, newspapers, banks, press agencies, etc., may be merely mentioned, without going into details. Their number are really unknown. But bigger interests are international in their aspect and operation—in which Stinnes is alleged to have an interest include:

World-wide interest.

Stinnes-Althei-Elbe-Schnecker—Union with its myriad foreign connections.

Vatthorsh, Chile, tramway.

Electric works in Spain and South America.

Electric appliances works throughout the world.

Alpine mine and smelting works in Austria.

Import company in Vienna.

Trucking branches including Lipitz and Co. in Budapest and Ferenc A.G. in Budapest and Ferenc & Co. in Sofia.

Hugo Stinnes, Rotterdam.

Pfaff & Pöhlke in Copenhagen and Holstenburg.

Hugo Stinnes, at Christiania.

Gesellschaft, at Landskrona.

Julius Schell and others at Zurich.

Protonomina, at Zagreb with half a million Swiss francs capital working in connection with the Alpine concerns of Austria, with Castiglioni and with the Italian Fiat works.

Grainitz A.G., at Trieste.

Hugo Stinnes Trade bureau for import, in New York.

Farming enterprises and oil fields in Argentina.

Ship connections with the Japanese Nippon-Kaisha in East India; also in Java.

Polish Upper Silesian works, Bismarck mines and Kattowitz mines, newly acquired and operated by Stinnes. "This is tied up with the Vienna Anglo-Bank which is largely under British control."

That May Be Answer to Our Food Problem

CHICAGO, July 3.—"If the mountain won't come to Mohammed, then Mohammed will go to the mountain."

Or, as paraphrased by J. R. Howard, president of the national transportation institute here: "If the world's food products can't be hauled cheaply to New York, then New York's population will have to move west."

Howard's opportunity for "moving" where he speaks should entitle him to a hearing. He obtained an intimate slant into the food producing problem as president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. From that position he went to the one he holds now as head of an organization designed to study impartially the tangled web of "shippers" and transportation relations.

Heavy Tonnage

"The present national prosperity wave reflected in the heavy tonnage hauled by transportation lines, is passing over the farmers' heads," says Howard.

"That fault is due in part to high freight charges and long hauls. Of course it is due partly, also, to the low price he gets for his products. But consider the element of rates."

Within 40 miles of the center of New York City lives one-sixth of the population of this country. That great swarm of humanity draws its sustenance from an area averaging 1500 miles away. The state of Iowa produces one-tenth of all the food grown in the United States. It takes all of that and more to feed the New York metropolitan district. And the freight has got to be paid.

What is your answer to that problem?

Moving Westward

"I'll tell you the answer, and it is being worked out more rapidly than most people suspect. The population is shifting westward as it never has before. The new industrial plants are not being built, as a rule, in the old centers in the east. They are going toward the source of food supply. And I'll tell you, too, that the movement is one to be encouraged and to rejoice at."

Another element enters into the transportation problem as related to food. Howard points out. "Tonnage is increasing much faster than cars and ships and other transportation facilities for handling it."

Just let it continue, and eventually a jam will occur which may reduce business to stagnation. The redistribution of population is helping prevent such a deadlock.

"Transportation is positively the best barometer to business," he declares.

Good Times Here

"The reports of heavy loadings which we get now mean nothing else except plenty of money to spend and good business. Prosperity is here, right now."

"The New York Central Railroad several months ago ran its popular Twentieth Century Limited from here to New York in five sections, or more than 60 cars, on that one day."

Even more enlightening than passenger figures is a recent report of the American Railway Association. It says that in the week ending May 26 the railroads loaded 1,044,029 cars with revenue freight. The million mark for weekly loadings had been passed only seven times before in our history."

ASK RUSS TO DEVELOP GREAT ICE-FREEPORT

MOSCOW, July 3.—The government newspaper organs are calling for the development of the Murmansk coast, called the "Window to America and England." It is the port just north and west of White sea which does not freeze in winter and where navigation can be kept open the year around.

It can fairly be called one of the richest regions of European Russia. Eleven million desatines (about 32,000,000 acres) are forests which produce the best quality of timber for building purposes. The realization of three hundred cubic feet, which is a natural annual growth there, will give the state 105,000,000 gold rubles per year.

There are only 20 sawing mills on the whole region and 775 mills in Sweden in the same space.

The ores in this country are of first quality. For example, the iron ores of Lomonetz return between five and six hundred million tons, while the possibility of the iron magnet ores go into billions of tons. There is also a great riches of mica, field stone, marble, granite and other minerals, some of which are being exploited by the local population in a very primitive manner.

FOREIGNERS WELCOME DAMAGED U. S. OAK

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Under the head "Export of Wornhous a New Industry," the department of commerce issued this statement:

"That it pays to investigate needs of foreign markets is shown by the following incidents which occurred in a foreign country a short time ago, recently reported to the lumber division of the department of commerce."

"An American exporter sent an unusually poor consignment of oak, which was found to be wormy, to his over connection, but no market could be found for this parcel. This consignment had caused a great loss to the exporter were it not that the consignee happened to visit an antique furniture factory. The manufacturer was at that time making antique grandfather's clocks and found the oak in question to answer his purpose very nicely, because it eliminated the work of boring worm holes by hand. The parcel was disposed of at a premium and a profitable connection was established."

Montana Educator Weds Second Wife 6 Hours After Grandson Is Born

BELOIT, Wis., July 3.—Dr. M. A. Brannon, chancellor of education for Montana, became a grandfather and bridegroom all in the space of six hours here. The former Beloit college president was married to Jean Anna Lytle Tammhill, former dean of Beloit women.

Six hours before his daughter by his first wife had presented him with a grandson. His daughter is the wife of Prof. L. S. Ballard, head of the Beloit college department of economics.

COASTER SLAYS OLD WATCHMAN

Run Down at Coney Island, Meets Death Unflinchingly

NEW YORK, July 3.—Delaney W. Lewis, 64, for more than 20 years a watchman on Jack Mays' roller coaster at Coney Island, was forced to stare approaching death in the face early today when a car came hurtling down upon him.

From his position high up on the twisted track Lewis was thrown to the street, lying instantly.

The aged watchman had climbed upon the structure to make some repairs from a nearby fire did not notice it. It was after midnight and he felt confident the coaster was closed for the night. Perched at a perilous height on the slender structure, unable to get off the narrow track, he heard the hum of a car.

Two people as helpless as Lewis to avoid the disaster on the roller coaster watched the car as it whirled down one of the heart-breaking "loops," the couple in the car coughed back in horror, and then the old man met his death without flinching. The car went on to the two passengers unhurt.

GOVERNOR TO PROBE SLAYING OF LUNATIC

BUTTE, Mont., July 3.—Following the release of two guards held in connection with the death of a Warm Springs insane asylum patient, it was rumored at the capital here that Governor Dixon may take some action in the case.

Albert Evans and Lee Perry, guards, were released at Anaconda late Monday where they had been held while an investigation of the death was being made by the Anaconda coroner.

The patient, John E. French, died as the result of an attack by Perry and Evans, other patients are at guards denied and said Perry killed French, denied and said French died after a fight with another patient.

Princeton to Oppose British Tennis Stars

NEW YORK, July 3.—The South Lawn Tennis Club has under way a season of the most varied activity. William C. Gauley has returned to the club as professional and has taken under his wing the juniors who have been active now for several years. The club championships will start July 4, and there will be matches between the Oxford-Cambridge team and one from Princeton and Lehigh Stanford, on July 6 and 7, and the annual invitation starting on July 20.

The club management is hoping to have the Australian and Hawaiian Davis cup teams there for play right after their tie at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club and there is also the hope of having the Japanese and Canadian cup teams in action.

FINDS VICTIM WIDOW THIEF RESTORES $2000

OAKLAND, Cal., July 3.—Howard Upson, under arrest here, charged with burglary, was upbraided by Mrs. Louise Robinson for "robbing a widow."

"Had I known you were a widow I would have left something," Upson asserted. When Upson had borrowed a punkie from the lady, rattled open the lining of his coat, and handed Mrs. Robinson jewelry valued at $2000.

The jewelry is said to have been stolen from Mrs. Robinson's home.

REWARD OFFERED FOR SLAYER OF SENATOR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 3.—Reward totaling $2500, to be offered for the arrest of the slayer of W. W. Wallace Green, prominent attorney and state senator. No trace to the man who killed Green as he stood in the garage basement of his home has been found.

Authorities are convinced, however, that the killing of Green was done for vengeance, and not in an attempted robbery.

Poverty Forces War Hero's Widow to Sell His Many Medals Won on Field of Battle

His Many Medals Won on Field of Battle

LONDON, June 23.—Honored and idolized during his life; now almost completely forgotten in his death, General Sir John S. Cowans, national hero, is the central figure of another grim tragedy of a nation's loss.

It is the tragedy of a nation's loss, and its victim is the general's widow, Lady Cowans, who has been forced through dire poverty to take the medals and awards which her husband won and put them up for sale.

Forty years ago John Cowans first joined the British army and when the World War broke out he was made quartermaster general of all the British forces.

When the war was over the general became ill. He had to go into debt to pay his son's bills, for the war had played havoc with his $40,000 estate.

A ray of hope came when awards for heroism were being handed out. Cowans was in line for something. But while others were made nobles and given huge money grants, Cowans was knighted.

He died a few months ago. There was a large military funeral, kind words and then complete forgetfulness.

The widow struggled along for a while. But her circumstances, she came worse. She had little left other than the medals which her husband had won. So she put them up for sale for the money they might bring.

The premier offered Lady Cowans an extra pension from the civil list amounting to $500 a year, to pay quarterly. She immediately refused.

A number of influential men, deploring the nation's ingratitude, are trying to make amends. But Lady Cowans says it is too late.

This Town 150 Years Old But Not Wise Enough to Decide Who Is Prettiest Girl

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 3.—A question of feminine beauty has almost eclipsed in interest the celebration Burlington has been having of the city's 150th anniversary.

There was a glittering parade and a charming figure in it was "Queen of Burlington"—Miss Maudie Kelly, 18-year-old Pauline McGreevy, who was declared the winner of a beauty popularity contest by a margin of 6000 votes.

But there was a disconcerting comment. Miss Kelly declared she was the right "Miss Burlington" because she had been leading in the voting contest.

Miss McGreevy presides over the cigar stand in the New Showwood Hotel and campaigns for Miss Kelly declared they were convinced a lot of alien votes had been cast for Miss McGreevy.

Artistically-inclined citizens declined to take sides. They contented themselves with the complaint that the public really didn't have a chance to express their choice. For the candidates were picked by 15 women's clubs, and some say the clubs didn't come out and let the public in on the secret of who their candidates were.

Anyway, Burlington had her 150th birthday celebration. And those who didn't think Miss McGreevy was the prettiest girl in Burlington united in offering a verbal crown at least to Miss Kelly.

DAD OF 91 HAS ONLY 33 KIDS

Marry Young and Eat Common Grub

RAY CITY, July 3.—"Chubby" Lucas is 91—

But he still paces the floor nights with a restless, healthy-junged youngster in his arms.

And it isn't his grandchild, either. It's his own baby son—11 months old now.

That boy is just one of "Chubby's" brood of 33 kiddies. The rest of "em range all the way up the ladder to the 67-year mark.

Lucas, you see, has been married four times. He's the father of three sets of twins by his second wife and a pair by his fourth. The present Mrs. Lucas has borne him six sons and daughters.

Most of his children have children too. To complete the exact number of his grandchildren probably would require a stenographer's expert services.

"Chubby's" paternal ancestors recall those of the late "Uncle John" Shell of Glasgow, Ky., who at the age of 122 had a boy of five years.

The most baptismal records, down in Vermilion, Ohio, reveal "Chubby" was christened Charles L. And Christmas Day, 1832, is set forth as the date of his birth.

But none dares say "Chubby" is old. And it makes him mad as a horn when his sons and daughters tell him he's "old."

Despite his 91 years, he's spry. He throws out his chest and goes through the "daily dozen" with the ease of a trained college athlete. He touches his finger tips to the floor, then his knees, without bending his knees.

And his memory! He even can describe a buckskin suit—the one with four buttons, lined with glass and covered with brass studs—an Italian woman made him buy back in 1837.

He may not be able to pass Thomas Edison's

Marine and Shipping Notes

MARINE MISCELLANY

May Barge
A representative of the Houston Harbor Transportation company is expected in Port Arthur today to see what work will be necessary to raise the Houston's firm derrick barge Wilham, which sank in 20 feet of water Sunday night on the east bank of Sabine Pass channel, about abreast of the light-house station. The barge was being towed from Port Arthur, bound for Houston, when it struck a submerged object and sank in 20 feet of water. The barge is reported to be listed to port, but resting easy on the bank of the channel. Port Arthur shipping men today expressed the opinion that no unusual difficulties will be experienced in raising the derrick barge.
